

Sign up TODAY for this informative and life changing class. Some of the topics covered are listed below.

Level II Intensive Residential ~ September 21-26 Prerequisite Level I Basic Shamanic Journey
Stay with us at Still Meadows Retreat Center: aesthetic natural beauty, delicious organic food, sacred geometry meeting center, like minded people, laughter, joy and spiritual fulfillment!

Divination

The inspired art of foretelling events or revealing hidden knowledge – which integrates the mystical role of non-human agents

Medicine Walk

A way of re-connecting with Mother Earth – the Earth is willing to take your pain and give direction to set things right.

Beheading Game

An extraordinary, magical event that results in the deep healing of an individual or community that has drifted from the natural cycles of life – something as powerful as a beheading is required to restore that vital connection

Curse Unraveling – spells, oaths, vows, promises, declarations, contracts, from this or other lifetimes.

Words are powerful and when said with great emotion can have a great impact. There are many ways that energetic intrusions can occur, purposefully or inadvertently, Unraveling a curse removes these unwanted energies and can be done in a compassionate, loving way.

Dismemberment

A symbolic transformational drama which has been recognized in the wisdom traditions since ancient times, and represents the turning point of inner change toward a more spiritual state of being

Soul card divination

In ancient traditions, soul cards show your soul purpose through all your lifetimes – divination using your soul card can reveal hidden knowledge pertaining to your soul

Effigies

An image carved of wood or constructed of various materials and imbued to contain the essence of a particular energy – which can then be used to facilitate powerful healing work, or be used to protect and guard individuals or communities

Body protectors

All shamanic practice is dependent upon help from the spirit world, specifically power animals that can be used and called upon to protect the physical body leaving the spirit protected and free to perform work in an altered state.

True self

At the very core of your being, you will find your True Self – that center of consciousness from which love, joy, inspiration, and compassion arise. It is who you truly are...

Power dance

Dance is a very important source of power in shamanism – it is believed that dance opens one up, allowing power to enter the body enabling the dancer to access information in a different way, on a different level

When intrusions are: Curses/spells/ oaths/ promises/ declarations/ vows/CONTRACTS

As mentioned many times already WORDS are powerful forms of expression and powerful energies. When words are combined with intense emotion, the emotion acts as a fuel for the word. The greater the emotion the greater the fuel. An intention puts things into motion universally. Life force is also fuel. Throughout history and cultures sacrifices have been done to add extreme power to an intention. We don't live in a culture such as this and so the thought of it is foreign and primitive. However there are many cultures that still use a form of sacrifice to ensure the power of a ceremony. Chickens in Africa are used often in ceremonial practice and then used to feed the community. Even the church refers to the blood of Christ and the body of Christ in their sacraments, and Jesus is referred to sacrificing himself to save others. I bring up this topic because I find myself often dealing with these topics during my healing work of Soul Retrieval. As I stated earlier, sometimes a person has tried everything to heal. They have read the books, done the workshops, gone to both allopathic and alternative practitioners but their condition persists. They have something chronic: pain, misfortune, failure, or with the client I have now, chronic weight loss. He weighs 118lbs and so far no one can figure it out. This is where I find amazing success by looking into other lifetimes of the client. I commented earlier that shamanism does not view lifetimes as linear: past, present, future, but again all happening simultaneously. If there was a spell, curse, oath, promise, declaration, vow or contract that was created in another lifetime that has a huge amount of life force with it, it is very likely that that life force is still alive and activated in the clients energy system. The energy of the "contract" is still in motion and affecting the person in this lifetime. Journeys into these other lifetimes and changing the situation in that lifetime literally changes the outcome that the client is living today. I find this work fascinating and effective.

There are many ways that curses and spells can be activated. Watch a few movies to get a feel for the drama of the past. Declaration, vows, oaths, were common. Great ceremonies and rituals often sealed the deal an energy was put into motion in a dynamic way with lots of life force and emotion. Imagine a scene where two men are dueling for the love of their lady. Declarations of love are spoken, Vows are created of fighting to the end, or declaring love for eternity. The duel happens and blood is spilled someone dies and takes this vow with them into the afterlife. Just because the person died, doesn't mean the energy did. The Hatfield's and McCoy's are a classic example of feuding that is past on energetically to the offspring. The offspring's then raised in an environment that automatically sees fault and disdain for the other family just because of the name. Now think of countries that have been feuding for centuries. The vows the curses the spells that have been cast because of these intense feelings and often enormous amounts of blood shed. Blood is only one example of huge amounts of life force, emotion without the blood can be just as binding. Fear can create power over a person or persons that can live on for centuries. The fear of burning in hell has been a controlling device that has proven to be effective, harmful and invasive. If you want to control people, scare people it always seems to work. Fear has built enormous thoughtforms and they affect us all. The fear of survival is a root chakra broadcast. Root meaning the basis of all things. If this chakra is out of alignment with it's origin of wellness, safety, security, and belonging, the foundation of a person can be faltered. With enough individuals expressing this fear, the foundation of a culture can be faltered and all of these broadcasts feed the thoughtform that lingers over their culture. Many people if not all people have some sort of curse or spell on them. Simple self imposed curses can bind a person energetically from creating the type of life or manifesting their dreams. We curse ourselves and curse others with words and emotions. These words and intentions live on.

They can be cleared and you can heal from these. We as a culture tend to be very sloppy with our words, not aware that they are a powerful energy that lives on.